The Urschelube® food grade products manufactured by High Performance Lubricants have a recommended shelf life for greases of five years, and lubricating oils is five years. To achieve this shelf life the oils and greases must be stored in their original sealed containers and in the proper conditions (near room temperature). It is normal to see some separation of the oil from the thickener used in the greases, especially with heat, this separation will not affect the performance of the grease. Our oils and greases do not contain any vegetable or animal products and do not support bacterial growth. High Performance Lubricants provides the following allergen information for the products listed above.
